

CHICAGO OFFICE TECHNOLOGY GROUP ANNOUNCES LAUNCH OF NEW DIVISION

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Bolingbrook, IL, June 2008, Chicago Office Technology Group announces the launch of its newest division, education technology solutions.

Chicago Office Technology Group is Chicago's leading provider of document management solutions and is now a reseller of interactive whiteboards and other group collaboration tools. The new division will market to K-12 educational institutions in the Chicago area that want to enhance the learning experience for students. COTG has already contracted with several companies in order to provide the best technology and service possible that will allow educational institutions to move into a digital learning environment.

The interactive whiteboard industry is growing at rates well over 150% per year according to Futuresource Consulting. One in six classrooms worldwide is forecasted to be using the technology by 2012. With an estimated 37 million classrooms in over 66 countries, the market is exploding internationally. COTG hopes to capture the Chicago market by launching the reseller division. The new division integrates technology from some of the industry's most notable manufacturers with in-house service and account management practices.

COTG can provide multiple technologies including interactive whiteboards, projectors, document cameras and localized service and account management. "K-12 educational institutions are just one of our projected targets. With such versatile technology, we hope to cater to just about anyone who is interested in digitizing their environment," says Mikel W. Carver, Director of Education Solutions, Chicago Office Technology Group. "We are focused on enhancing the experience of our customers and have aligned ourselves with the right partners."
